

Locomotion

Jason Griffith began painting the old locomotive by the Armstrong Recreation Center this morning. Jason chose to refurbish the train for his Eagle Scout project. Originally, he intended to only paint it, but rust and graffiti resulted in a lot of ground work before the painting could begin. Jason and several friends began the work shortly before school was out. Today and tomorrow, with a little help from a city paint compressor, the train should get a full coat of shiny black paint.

The Chandler Freeman Jul 15 1982